

STUDY_C

The variation between the three different panel sizes on the North façade screen has been emphasized more strongly in this version: Now the panels widths are 1.0x, 0.5x, and 0.25x, corresponding to voided space, studio space, and office space respectively (see images: c_2, c_lookingUp, and panelSizeDiagram). A subsequent version might explore some gradations in panel-size change rather than the abrupt shifts seen here.

Further refinements also around the terrace cantilever. The extensions of the panels at the top have been eliminated to put more emphasis on the hanging extensions and express that top edge with greater clarity. The handrail (or maybe planters, or parapet?) is necessary for code. More articulation in the screen on the west side of the terrace cantilever segues from the exuberance of the west screen to the calm of the cantilever fringe (see images c_3, c_4).
