

The image displays two floor plan diagrams of a restaurant layout, labeled 'a' and 'b'. Both diagrams show a rectangular room with a central aisle and various seating areas. The left diagram (a) features a central aisle with a service counter on the right side. The right diagram (b) shows a similar layout but with a different arrangement of tables and chairs, and a different service counter configuration. Both diagrams include labels for 'North' and 'South' directions.

[illegible]